Public Relations Manager Report – January 2016

Year End Check List and Calls to Action

Resolutions typically ring in the New Year. As we begin 2016, I wanted to review our previous “resolutions” or goals we made back in July 2015 to see how your PR team is doing.

2015 - 2016 Goals

The PR team’s first goal was to continue utilizing the avenues and tools the District has available, such as media coverage and internal communications. Facebook is a great way to communicate, share information, and celebrate with your fellow members. D39’s FB “friends” have increased over the last six months, and we hope more members will decide to join. As for utilizing more media coverage, we are always on the lookout for stories and events that could be of interest to the general public. What you can do: Make sure your new members join the Member Group in Facebook

Millennials have a very different image of what Toastmasters is and David Goad, our Social Media Chair, has embarked on a new “Toastimonial” series focusing on rising stars within District 39. David started by spotlighting three members, Stephanie Maynard, Rasheed Bustamam, and Ia Her. Their interviews have been posted in D39’s Newsletter and Facebook. We hope this series will help gain a better understanding of Millennials and what we can do as an organization to encourage more young professionals to join Toastmasters. If there is a member you would like considered for a future interview, please contact David. What you can do: Share the articles and invite young professionals to visit your clubs.

Because many people think Toastmasters is only for public speaking our last goal was to showcase the District and our members by making the public, the community, and businesses more aware of what Toastmasters offers. David and I have been brainstorming on a new recruiting program idea that we will implement with the help of our Division Directors. It’s called Total Speech Makeover. What you can do: Volunteer a club to test the new program.

Veena Vijayaraj-Kadadal and Cynthia Biedermann continue to stay on top of D39’s website and Reid Walley continues to work diligently behind the scenes. As for our District Photographer, Bob Cullifer and crew, they continue to do an awesome job being our fabulous shutter bugs!

Thank you all for your continued support and hard work! District 39 is in for another exciting year!

The District 39 Unsung Hero Award

During the past few months of attending club officer training sessions, attending club and area speech contests, and speaking with numerous area and division directors, one theme plays over and over again when it comes to successful clubs-the value of club champions. Club champions are the men and women who meeting after meeting, month after month, year after year, continue to encourage and mentor the members of your club to reach for greater levels of individual member success and greater levels of club health and growth. I hear their names all the time, and it occurred to me it is time to put a formal recognition program in place to publicly thank these tireless individuals for their unwavering faith in the Toastmasters program and for their unending devotion to the success of their fellow club members.

Starting January 2016, a formal recognition submission form will be sent to all members asking everyone to submit nominations of their fellow members for the 2015-2016 District 39 Unsung Hero Award. All submissions will be posted to the Unsung Hero Award page on the District 39 website by May 1, 2016. All nominees will be presented with a framed award certificate, and be recognized at the District 39 Spring Conference.

I encourage you to recognize the Unsung Heroes in your club by submitting an Unsung Hero Award nomination form between the dates of January 1 through April 15, 2106, thereby allowing our district the opportunity to publicly recognize our fellow members for their service.
